Mrs. J. No matter what causes facial eruptions, absolute cleanliness inside and out is the only way to cure them. Rocky Mountain-Tea taken this month will drive them away. 35c. Grant Holden.

Bills are out announcing a June ball to come off in Michaels' hall Saturday evening, June 1. Hurd's orchestra, of Detroit, will furnish music for the occasion. Admission 10 cents. Everybody invited.

Bruce, son of Judge Tappan, fell from the Rappley House bus on the corner of Main and Mechanic streets Wednesday afternoon while playing with other children. His forehead was badly bruised.

Geo. Blackford, while leading one of Dr. Xull's horses to water Wednesday morning, was kicked in the face. Dr. Wright closed the gap by a few stitches. No scar will be left on the face of the young lad.

A box social will be held at the Biddleman school house on Wednesday evening, June 5th, and as the item dropped in our item box at the postoffice reads, "proceeds to apply on pastor's salary." It is for a good cause and should be largely attended.

Will Campbell, of Lynn township, has had a terrible time of late all on account of dogs getting into his flock of sheep. He went out into the field the other morning and low and behold! nearly every sheep in his flock of merinos were terribly lacerated. Will swears vengeance if he finds the dogs that did the deed.

Married, at Port Huron, on Wednesday, May 22, Mrs. Cora Church, of Postoria, and Dr. A. M. Francis, of Port Austin. The Dr. was a former resident of Yale and has many friends in this neighborhood all of whom join with The Expositor in wishing the happy couple happiness and prosperity through life.

One wouldn't hardly think that a Republican postmaster should want a Democratic flag staff stuck on top of the government building, but nevertheless our postmaster has placed a hickory pole, the badge of Democracy, on top of the postoffice building in Yale. No doubt this will stand the storm of the seasons as well as a punky pine pole.

An exchange tells of a farmer who has kept a flock of sheep for fourteen years and has not had them attacked by dogs even once. The flocks on adjoining farms having been ruined. The flock always wears between five and eight bells of different sizes and tones. It is said there is not a dog in the world with sufficient courage to attack a flock of sheep well supplied with bells.

The Flax mill building has been re-shingled.

Glasses fitted. His next visit will be on Friday, June 14th. He will be in his Port Huron office every day in the month except Fridays.

After thirty-one years the following homes in Yale and vicinity have been made happy by visits from relatives not met all together in that length of time. That of Steven Curvin, Mrs. Page, Thomas and J. Curvin. The relatives are Mrs. Scott, of Manitowoc, Wis., Mrs. Ferguson, of Detroit, E. A. Curvin, of Warkworth, Ont., Sidney Curvin, of Akron, Tuscola county, Mrs. Goheen, of Meredith, Gladwin county and the mother from Akron, Mich. The family group was photographed this week by J. C. Jones, artist.

Duncan McKeith, who left Yale four weeks ago Tuesday in company with Chancy Kelley for Idaho on a prospecting tour of that state did not remain there very long, having returned Saturday. Dunk did not fall in love with that country. He thinks it too wild and woolly, and says he was never used to putting up with the privations it is necessary to in that unsettled territory. Chance was in the best of spirits when Dunk came away and was enjoying the climate. No definite reports are yet received of any profitable find in timber land.

Thoroughbred Short Horn Durham Bull for service at Redhouse farm, 2 miles north and 1 mile west of Yale. Isaac Martin.

The Jackson House omnibus is out this week with a spanking new coat of paint. Thomas Manley did the painting which is executed in a workmanlike manner.

No doubt but we've hardly a reader but what has run a lamp or lantern over in the dark. John Hutton is showing an oil can that makes it impossible to run over.

The excursion to Detroit next Sunday will be largely patronized by people of Yale and vicinity. A league base ball game will be played between Baltimore and the home team on that day.

Into each life some ruins must fall. Wise people don't sit down and bawl; Only fools suicide or take to flight. Smart people take Rocky Mountain Tea at night. Grant Holden.

People who attend public meetings should show respect to the speaker and not leave the hall until he gets through, unless something very urgent calls them away. Several went out of Central hall Thursday afternoon disturbing the speaker and taking the attention of the audience.

Wharton & Co., who represent the Champion Harvester Co., will deliver the machinery and agricultural implements sold during the past few months to their customers on Saturday, June 5th. The sales have been large and it is expected there will be a big turnout in town on that day. At this time the drawing of the buggy will take place.

An arch has been cut in the partition between John Hutton's hardware store and the room recently vacated by A. Windsor. This room, as was announced in The Expositor a few weeks ago, will be used in which to display stoves. When Mr. Hutton gets his large stock arranged and his new goods in he will have as fine a display as you will find in St. Clair county. Drop in and look him over.

The base ball game between the college nine from Marlette and the boys from the Yale flax mill on the fair ground here Thursday afternoon was not played to a final finish. The club from Marlette was composed of school boys and we understand the game was all pleasantness for the first finish, as the score was in favor of Marlette, and changed pitchers. The next two innings was disastrous to the visiting team and they quit. Score 11 and 9 in favor of Marlette.

Undertaker George Gough has ordered a new funeral car which he expects here this week. He informs that it is an elegant one and that none better can be found even in the large cities of the state.

An ice cream social will be given by the Brockway school at Wm. Laycock's on Wednesday evening, June 5th. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock to 10. Bill—twenty-five cents a couple or single supper fifteen. Proceeds for district library. All are invited.

Married at Marlette on Wednesday afternoon, May 22, 1901, by Rev. Geo. Durr, Miss Frankie Jones, of Speaker, and W. R. Bryce, of Deckererville. Both young people are known in Yale and this news will be pleasantly received by many. The Expositor extends congratulations.

C. S. Russell, of Northville, Deputy Head Consul for Modern Woodmen of America in this part of the state assisted the members here on Wednesday evening in the secret work. Mr. Russell has the work down pat and seems to be a man well fitted for the position he holds.

Last week we received a special edition of the Brown City Banner, 16 pages in all, containing an extended write-up of the town, business men and places of prominence in that lively village. It was interspersed with halftones of citizens, business places, dwellings, etc. This edition is a credit to the publisher and his assistants.

J. B. Stevens rented the fair grounds for pasture and posted notices prohibiting trespassers. He also secured the gates by placing padlocks thereon. Some person or persons devilishly inclined or for other reasons unknown broke the padlocks on the night of the 27th and let the stock out. Mr. Stevens offers a reward of $50 for the apprehension and conviction of the individual or individuals who committed the deed.
